A Letter from our Chair and President & CEO

Very few youth-serving organizations can rival the storied history and wide-ranging impact of 4-H, America’s largest youth development organization. 4-H took root more than a century ago, providing young people with the skills to lead for a lifetime. Today—in a rapidly-changing and competitive world—empowering America’s kids is more important than ever.

National 4-H Council plays an essential role in supporting 4-H in partnership with a unique and innovative network that includes more than 100 leading universities, America’s Cooperative Extension System and the National Institute of Food and Agriculture at the United States Department of Agriculture. We’re proud to be their partner on many levels to support the 4-H program.

Council’s work is focused on creating public-private sector partnerships, convening the 4-H community around important issues and telling the amazing 4-H story. In 2015, we celebrated our highest revenue year in Council history – raising nearly $48 million. Those funds supported exciting 4-H initiatives like teen-led healthy living programs, the world’s largest youth-led science experiment and programs to engage Hispanic youth and families. Our supporters—including millions of 4-H alumni—are rightfully proud of the proven impact of the 4-H experience.

We understand that America needs more young people who are engaged, prepared and qualified to take on the critical challenges facing businesses, communities, families and kids. Sadly, too many of our nation’s youth lack the basic skills required to become successful and productive members of society. The numbers are sobering; half of today’s youth admit they are unprepared for life after high school.

In response, Cooperative Extension’s 10-year vision sets a lofty goal: to reach millions more youth with a life-changing 4-H experience—tailored to the changing demographics and diverse needs of the country. The entire 4-H community, including Council, is committed to making that vision a reality.

More than 100 years ago, 4-H was founded on a belief in the power of youth. Today, 4-H is poised to positively impact the next 100 years—by equipping America’s young people with the critical skills needed to solve modern day challenges. That’s a powerful story we will continue to share, one about 4-H’ers leading with confidence and curiosity, with the capability to find answers and solutions, the courage to get the job done and make sure it’s done right.

Science

Five million and counting. That’s the number of science projects completed by 4-H’ers annually. In 2015, with support from our partners, America’s kids were given even more chances to grow their love for science, technology, engineering and math.

It begins with the creative, hands-on approach to science. It’s called learn-by doing—the 4-H way.
AUGUST
Preparations are being made for the 7th annual 4-H National Youth Science Day, featuring the world’s largest youth-led science experiment. Kit sales for the Rockets to the Rescue experiment, created by the University of Arizona Extension, are taking off in a significant way.

JANUARY
Hughes Net and 4-H inspire the next generation of scientists through alumni activation campaign called 4-H GROWN.

FEBRUARY
Disney doubles its investment in a 4-H program called Connecting Youth to Nature – designed for urban youth and their families.

MARCH
Thousands of youth discover the science behind the “Water Windmill Challenge,” as part of the 4-H Ag Innovators Experience.

OCTOBER
The 7th annual 4-H National Youth Science Day is a success with an 82 percent increase in youth participation, more than 1,000 events in 50 states, live satellite broadcast across 30 markets, and a national launch event at the Verizon Center in Washington, D.C.

JUNE
In the news: the innovative approach to teaching 4-H science is featured prominently in the spring issue of STEM Jobs Magazine.

Healthy Living

The health and well-being of America’s kids is a 4-H priority. Not surprisingly, 4-H young people are leading the programs that are making a difference in the lives of families in communities throughout the United States.

Program funding and support is made possible by public and private organizations -- from major corporations and foundations to the nation’s land-grant universities, Cooperative Extension and USDA.

APRIL
4-H’ers share ways they are fighting childhood hunger and rural poverty during a visit with President Obama and Agriculture Secretary Vilsack in the Oval Office.
Mentoring

With the help of trusted mentors, 4-H is changing and saving lives. In 2015, the 4-H National Mentoring Program supported thousands of young people thanks to Department of Justice funding and proven programs delivered by America’s Cooperative Extension System.

All kinds of kids benefit from the program—from those living in public housing and detention centers to Native American youth, new immigrants and more.

JUNE
4-H National Mentoring Program funds support for Maryland kids living in public housing who are learning about exciting careers in STEM thanks to their creativity and trusted mentors.
Citizenship

Compared to their peers, 4-H’ers are nearly two times more likely to be civically active according to independent research. Their actions tell an even better story.

For nearly 60 years, thousands of 4-H youth have traveled to the National 4-H Conference Center, just outside the nation’s capital, to learn the importance of serving their country and giving back to their communities.

We make all efforts to ensure accuracy. If your name is not listed correctly or in the manner you wish, please contact Betsy Johnson at bjohnson@4-H.org or 301-961-2817.
In 4-H, we believe in the power of young people. We see that every child has valuable strengths and real influence to improve the world around us. We are America’s largest youth development organization—empowering nearly six million young people across the U.S. with the skills to lead for a lifetime.
